Cancer Explained

Synopsis

What causes cancer? Who is at risk? Can cancers be prevented or cured? Cancer is a worrying and mysterious disease to most people, but many types of cancer are curable or preventable. In Cancer Explained, Professor Fred Stephens, an experienced and distinguished oncologist, explains cancer in clear, understandable language, dispelling myths and misconceptions. He discusses the various treatments for cancer and gives up-to-date information about how to minimize the risks.

Customer Reviews

I found this book very useful and informative in that it explained cancer in simple terms for non-medical readers. It is a topic that can be very frightening, but Fred Stephens manages to be truthful and dignified in this book. He also discusses not only cancer treatments, but also preventative measures, so it is a book that everyone concerned about maintaining their health and lifestyle should read.
