The author states that toxins that increase free radicals can be a cause of Parkinsons. Aluminum and mercury can increase free radicals in the body. My father developed PD in 1980 as a result of the intake of toxic metals. . I tried to treat him with nutrition and detoxification. In his case aluminum and mercury were the two most important toxic metals. He would not eat what I suggested and would binge on cookies and Ice cream whenever he got the chance. Aluminum salts are used in these foods as an emulsifier to prevent caking. He also would drink municipal tap water that is a source of aluminum. His shaking would become so severe that he couldn't read a book, he would shuffle his feet rather than normal walking and he would uncontrollably smack his lips. I would give him a soak in a detox bath and when he got out after a half hour these aforementioned symptoms would be about one tenth as severe as before he had the detox bath. Every week or two he would get his detox bath always with the same good results. But he loved sugar containing foods and continued to eat them whenever he went out to a party, gathering or if he could get someone to get some for him when I was busy doing something else. What I put in the bath was a mild chelator that pulled the aluminum out of the skin but I have now discovered that Malic acid is even better. Beer and wine making supply stores sell Malic acid for food/beverage use. sells a pound of food grade malic acid for $19. It used to be available in sour apples but now most apples are sweet and contain very little. It is also sold as magnesium malate which can pull aluminum out of the brain. Unfortunately you can only take a few capsules a day without upsetting the calcium magnesium ratio.

For the past 14 years an extremely close friend of mine has had many unexplainable symptoms (lack of smell, muscle cramping, choking, extreme abdominal pain with nausea after eating fiber or fat-rich foods, etc.) This November 2015 I noticed a resting tremor in the arm on his left side. This was the first time I suspected his issues were related to one disease which might be Parkinson's Disease (PD). However, I still dismissed this possibility because tremors can be related to other medical issues (one of which is benign) and he has only had this tremor three times. Periodically over the past several months I noticed him walking slower, a frozen facial expression, and his right hand curled in front of him as if he had a stroke. On Dec 5, 2015 he really exhibited the slow walking, frozen face, and curled hand and he took forever to dress that morning. Later that evening I became certain (in my opinion) that he has PD due to his telling me about a change in his handwriting which I did not witness. Unfortunately, he refuses to go to the doctor or seek medical help from a neurologist even when I told him I believe he has PD. On extremely rare occasions he'll go to see a particular specialist for whatever ailment is almost killing him at the moment. As a result, since December 2015 I've completely immersed myself in learning about PD with some cursory investigation of illnesses that exhibit Parkinson-like symptoms because I wanted to be sure I was on the right track. Besides searching the Internet for information, I purchased seven (7) books on Parkinson's Disease (PD) of which this book is one.
